

Career Options After MBA within Specializations

MBA students must have complete knowledge of job opportunities available after the completion of an MBA degree. However, let us explore the MBA degree specializations and examine which MBA specialization and job profile is best for you as per your skills and knowledge. Let's dig into more popular specializations of MBA and career opportunities.

#1 Career Opportunities After MBA in Finance

The MBA in Finance constitutes with the management, analysis, and monetary sectors of any of the corporate, finance, or corporate fields. This field is much polar and has vast career options where you can step into the finance, banking, investment sectors of the corporate or government department as well. MBA in finance, students will be able to pursue or make careers in accounting, corporate finance, banking, portfolio management, international finance, capital venture, private equity, and others.

#2 Career Opportunities After MBA in Marketing

MBA in Marketing focuses on the study of marketing and businesses. The essential aim is to teach a student ins and outs of marketing by providing them the in-depth knowledge of marketing and its rules, policies, or related key features. MBA in marketing has a good range of career opportunities and the course teaches the key aspect of the syllabus such as brand marketing, techniques, leadership, sales, duties, management skills, product branding and management, marketing research, consumer behavior, so more. Marketing of any of the brand, product, services, or goods plays an important role in earning profit and making the value in the available market for their respective product.

#3 Career Opportunities After MBA in Operation Management

Another very popular specialization in the field of MBA is operation management. Operation management is a backbone in any of the business or business operations that includes product quality and cost. In the study of operation management, a student will get to learn or adapt the knowledge related to optimizing the resources, product, policies, design flows, to establish the supply chain and logistics with the product and the target. Student can build their respective career in operation management into these sub-fields such as Retail, Hospitality, Logistics, Transportation, Construction, Financial Institutions, Information Technology, Management Consulting, so forth.

#4 Career Opportunities After MBA in Human Resource Management

After completing the degree in MBA in HRM (Human Resource Management), candidates can join various firms as the position holds as HR (Human Resource) in any of organization. The HR is a person that is the mediator that works for the employees to the management. HR management is the one who is responsible to the employee's performance and recruiting candidates for the company.

After completing the degree in HR management a student can work in different sectors at the HR executive or manager in these fields such as Manufacturing Sector, BPO, Information Technology, Service Sector, Corporate Sector, Government Sector, Banking Sector, Finance Sector, Education Sector, and like that. The HR professional is the one that is deeply involved in the process of ins and outs of any of the company or organization of recruiting, orienting, giving training to the new joining, arranging fun activities, or doing other office-related works.

Exams after MBA

Masters of Business administration, is one of the most popular course in India for pursuing higher studies as it open up a lot of opportunities for young and bright students to get a respected job. One of the sector that lures young talent of our nation is the Government sector that provide the best salary, Best perks and stress free life to a candidate. In this space we will be looking at all the Government Job Opportunities that students have after completing their MBA.

Top 5 Govt Jobs After MBA

A plethora of opportunities open up for students after completing MBA. We are giving you some of the Government sectors where you can apply after completing your MBA. Check below Job detail about top 5 Govt Jobs after MBA:

➤ Personnel Officer in Banks

IBPS conducts IBPS SO while SBI conducts SO exams to recruit candidates as HR/Personnel Officer in Scale-I. Only those candidates can apply for this recruitment process who have completed their PGDM/ MBA in Human resource management, social work or Industrial relation to apply for this profile.

➤ General Manager Post

There are several organisation that recruits candidates for the General Manager post. Some of the organisations that hire candidates for general manager post like: National Small Industries Corporation Ltd, Odisha Mining Corporation OMC, State Trading Corporation of India, National Dairy Development Board (NDDB), BSNL, IFCI Ltd, Bharat Earth Movers Limited (BEML), etc.

➤ Manager Trainee Position

To be appointed as a Manager Trainee, a student can work as a management trainee by going through the relevant entrance exam to join as a manager trainee position. Some of the organisations that hire candidates for this position are: Fertilizers and Chemicals Travancore Limited, National Projects Construction Corporation Limited, Mishra Dhatu Nigam Limited, Dredging Corporation of India Limited

➤ Marketing Officer in Banks

If you are not eligible to apply as a personnel officer in public sector bank, don't be disheartened as there is another position for which you can apply for and that is of Marketing Officer in Scale-I. If a candidate wants to be appointed as a Marketing officer then MBA in Marketing is required.

➤ Professor

If you are looking for a stress free job that can earn you great money and can give you both peace of mind and financial stability, Professor is the best job for you. All you have to do is to apply for UGC NET and clear it with great marks. You can always give NET and qualify to become a professor in any government college.

➤ Research

The world is filled with a lot of things that are yet to be discovered. The best thing that you can be the part of this exploration process is by clearing the UGC-NET JRF and further pursuing your studies in research by doing Doctoral in it. These Doctoral fellowships are fully funded by governments.